Why submit to FFTG Awards Film Fest Screenwriting Competition 2021?

- Screenplay competitions get your script read. Even better, many of the writers who win these screenwriting competitions end up signing a development deal or selling their winning script to one of the judges.
- While the movie business competition is tough - as it is for all around the world in every country, screenwriting contests and competitions can be worthy investments for kick starting a writing career. That's the whole reason you wrote the script in the first place. Isn't it? Next to getting it made.
- Another possibility is that, you may not win at all, but maybe a judge will earmark your script and kept you in mind regardless of the results. All because you made an effort to submit a well-written script. There is also a possibility one of the judges may hire or recommend you to the industry professionals to develop their projects.

There may be hundreds of reasons to not enter screenplay competition, but there's one reason to do it that beats them all –

Opportunities - In an industry as cryptic, nebulous and insular as entertainment, opportunities are something that should never to be passed up.
